Foreword

We, the Charlemo Staff of 1961, realize that when we, as students, climb the stairways of the future, we will in turn ascend the stairs of knowledge. As time passes the risers of the stairs seem to decrease in height but the treads expand in width and meaning.

We have tried to capture the 1960-61 school year with pictures, words, and half-forgotten snapshots of things that once seemed to rise above all. As we recall this flight of memories, they will not fade because we have been a part of them; and they, in turn, made our book.

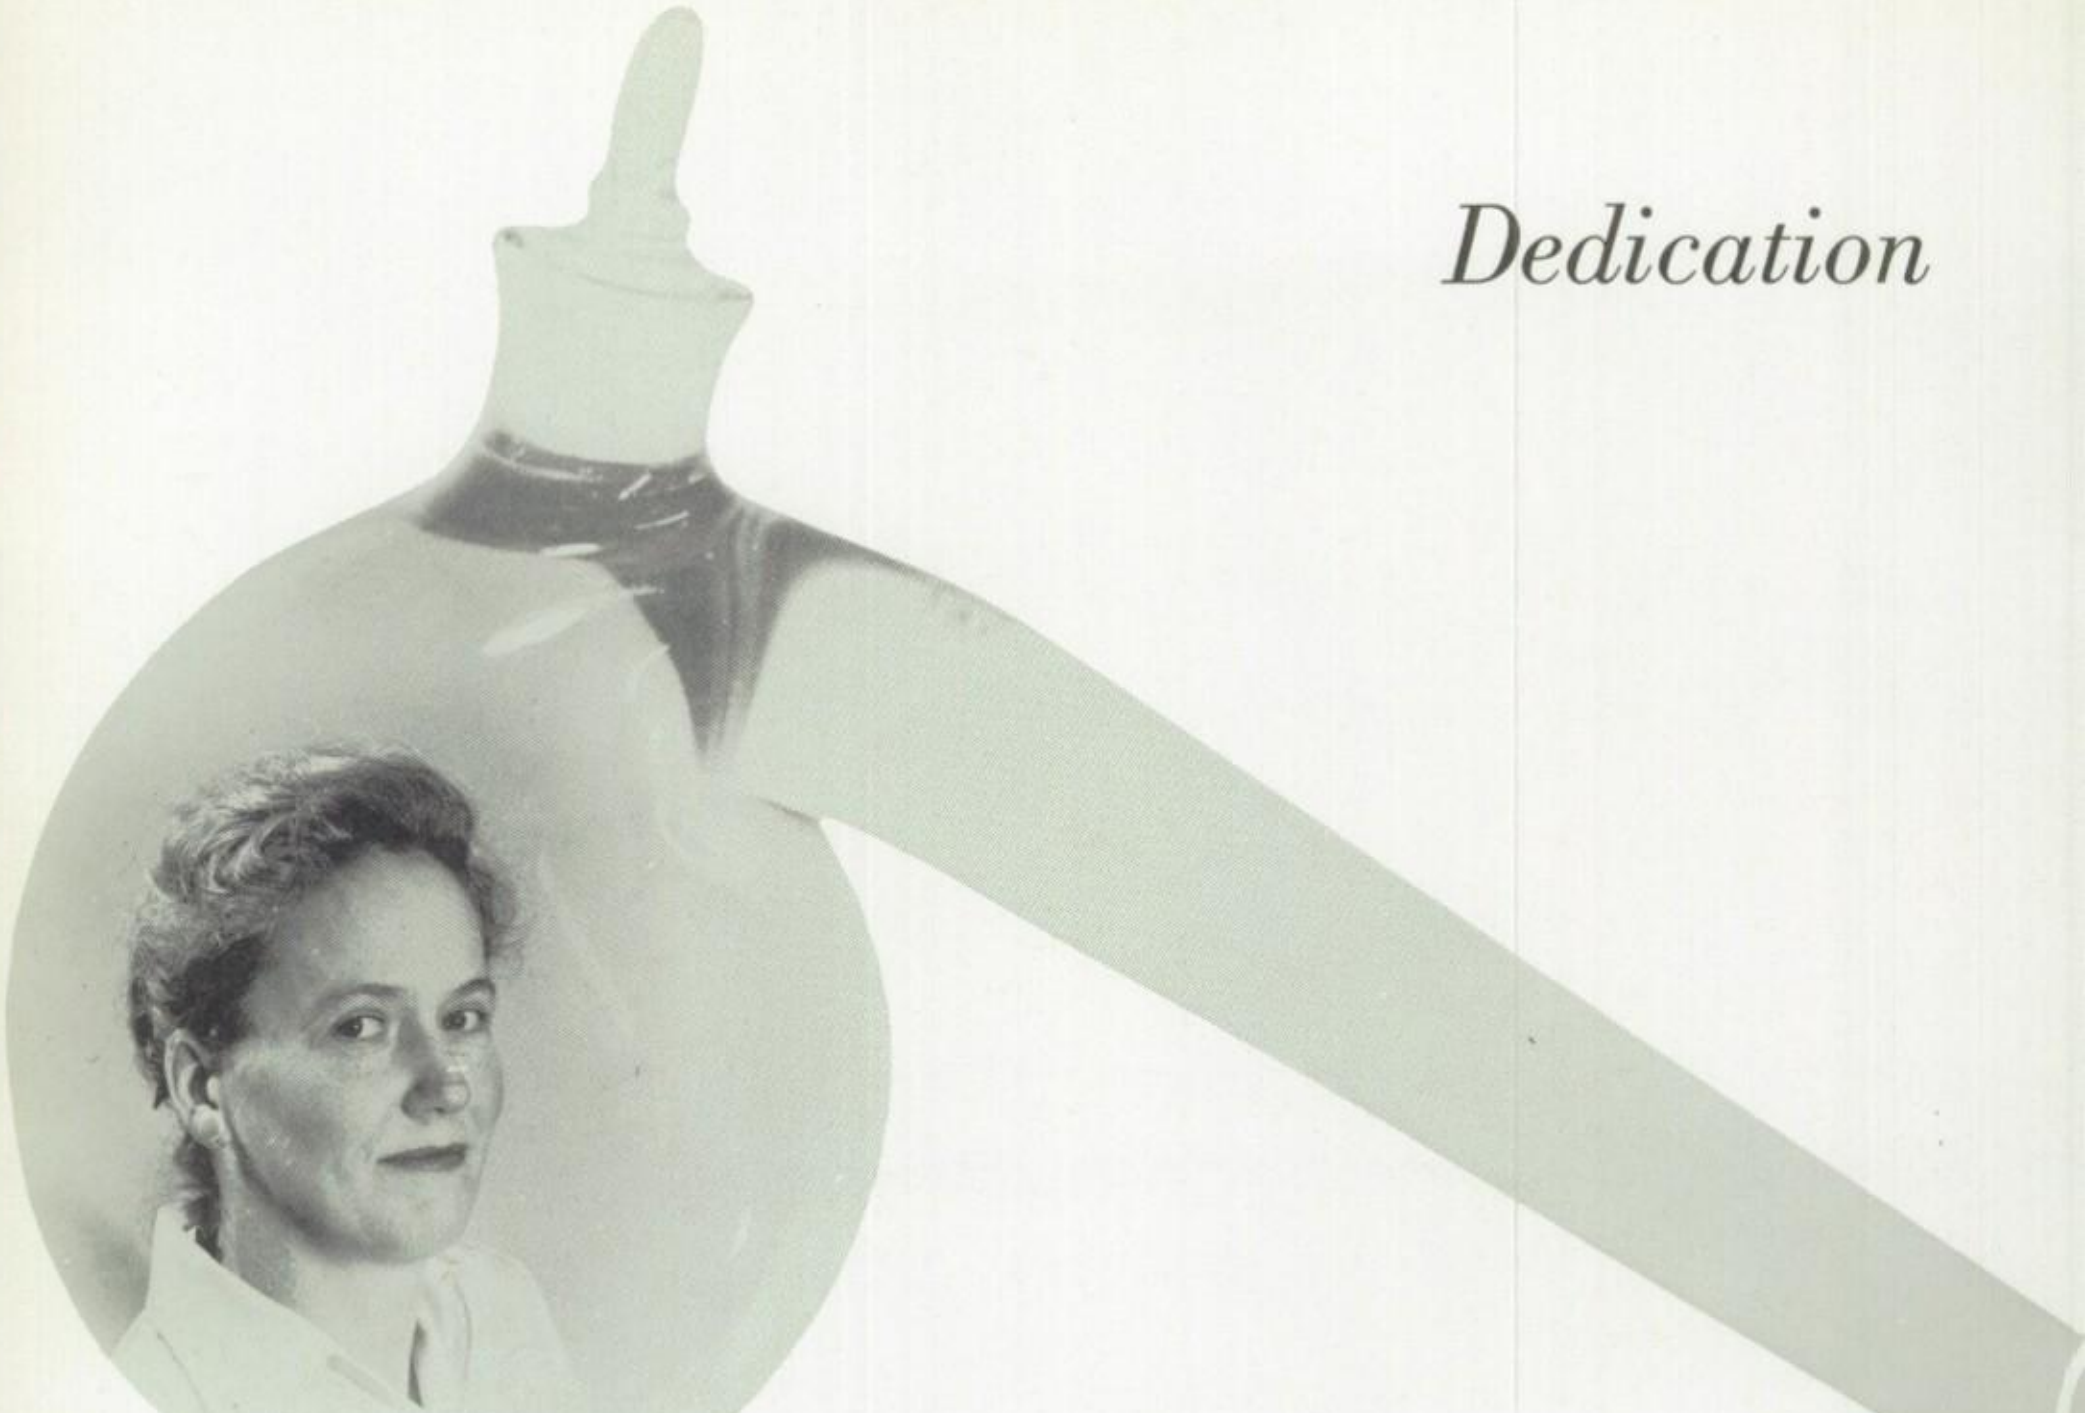
CHARLEMO

Dedication



The 1961 Charlemo is dedicated with admiration to Mrs. Nina Knight, chemistry and general science teacher at St. Charles High.

In the retort of her mind Mrs. Knight mixes the ingredients of pleasant personality, sympathetic understanding, and sound knowledge of her subject, pouring out the mixture as meaningful learning experience for her students.

We Grew Again

This Year

Our first junior high in St. Charles was built in 1938 by the Public Works Administration. It is an integral part of the High School building.

As St. Charles grew in size and population, the central building was built. Constructed in 1954, it contained Junior High classrooms and a gym and lunchroom for Junior and Senior High students.

With the opening of this school year, the new Junior High on Elm Street went into service. For the second time St. Charles High School gained classrooms by taking Junior High space.

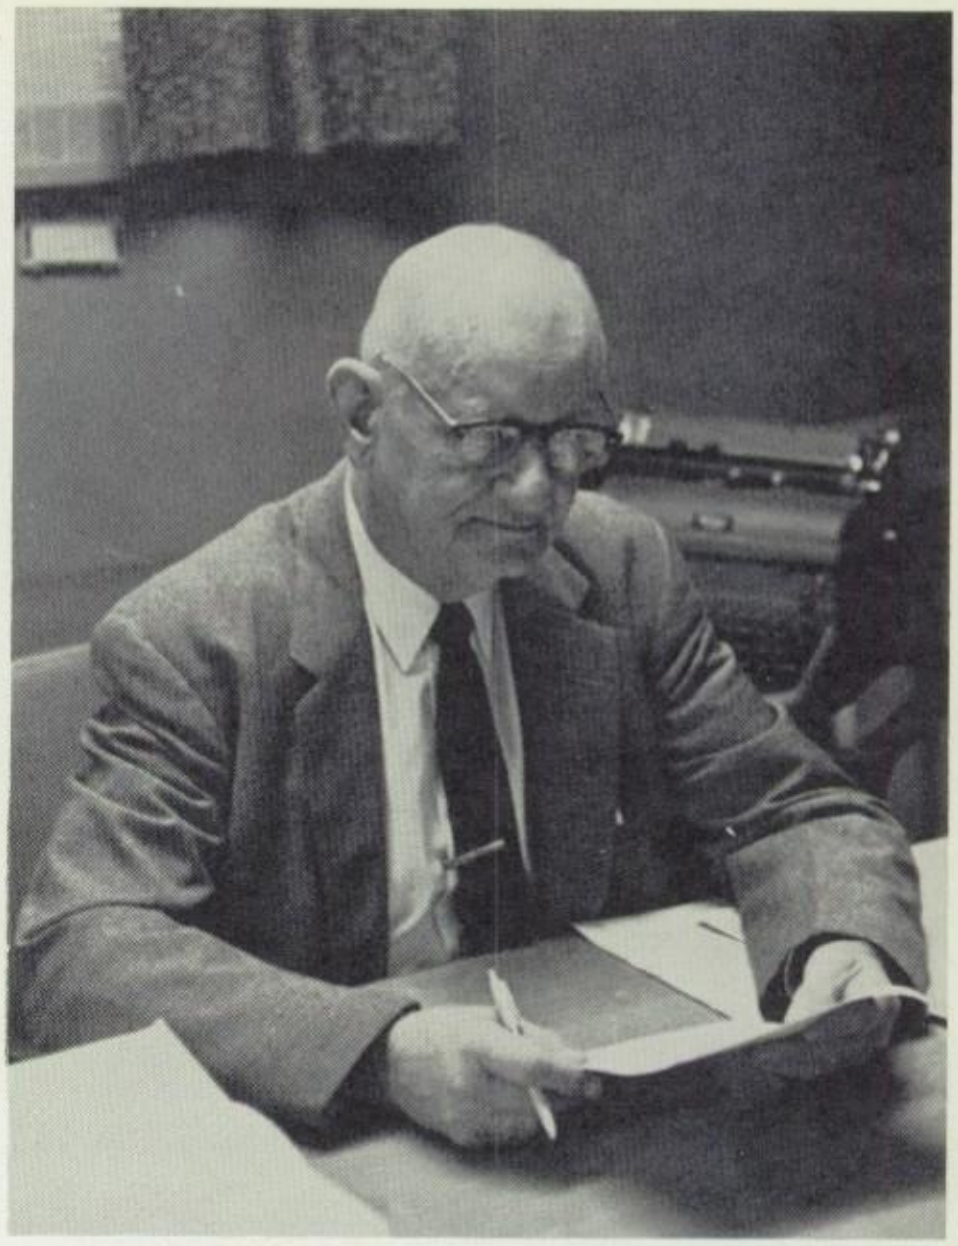
The theme, "Stairways to the Future," optimistically suggests the spirit of youthful ambition and the elation of contemplative achievement. Yet realistically, we are reminded that stairways not only ascend but also descend. Those of us who in an unguarded moment have carelessly tripped and plunged headlong down a flight of stairs, know full well that "Stairways" can symbolize not only a hopeful expectancy, but also personal reverses and uninvited tragedy. So, faced with a possible alternative, we choose to envision "Stairways to the Future" as an invitation to an upward climb to be identified by controlled footsteps, a firm grip, a conscious effort and with ever steady ascent—and all with the impellent conviction that life's economic, moral, intellectual and spiritual investments may come to a meaningful and purposeful fruition. May your "Stairways to the Future" be just that.



Stephen Blackhurst

Superintendent

Roy L. Clemons

Administrative Assistant

As American education looks to higher goals and moves to higher levels of achievement, the stairway becomes more symbolic to students. It is remindful of a challenge to all of us—to hold fast to that which has proved its worth, while marking out new trails and conquering new frontiers for the future.

Mr. Burger Principal

The struggle up the ladder of success is continuous; a goal not reached at any given time. Education does not end when we receive the high school or the college degree, but is a lifetime process. We are fortunate to have some things in common . . . Time to use, and the great source of spiritual guidance. To be a man of destiny, a man needs a destination, and for America to achieve her mission all Americans must have a mission.

Our educational tradition adheres to a plan for the development of a society in which talents of each individual are developed along lines to make a better life for all. Education is the means to achieve the genuine freedom of self-direction and self-fulfillment. St. Charles High, with its broad and varied curricular and extracurricular program, makes it possible for each student to develop his individual potentialities.

In essence the school is your "Stairway to the Future."

Mr. Black Assistant Principal

Student Council

Each year the student body elects, by popular vote, the members of the Student Council. This year the Council has made an addition of two members per class. There is a new office, the secretary of student body. The Student Council discusses school problems, sponsors school dances, elections, and a public service project.

Publications

The CHARLEMO is one of the products of the publications class. The school newspaper, the PIRATE-PATTER, is also published by this group.

The class met one hour daily but most members found it necessary to devote many extra hours to the work to meet deadlines.

Language Lab, Added This Year, Speeds Teaching Linguistics

Installed with the aid of National Defense Education Act funds, the language laboratory is part of a program to facilitate teaching of science, mathematics and modern foreign languages.

Student in booth hears tape recorded native voice through headphones and tries to match pronunciation during pauses.

Through elaborate console switching Mrs. Schafer is able to listen to any student and converse with individuals or the whole class.

Booths cut down interference from adjacent students.

Books, locks, club finance and tickets are all the concerns of Mrs. Bernhoester.

Staffs

Typing letters, taking dictation, issuing the daily bulletin, greeting students and visitors and sending transcripts are all in a day's work for Mrs. South and Mrs. Mohr in the main office.

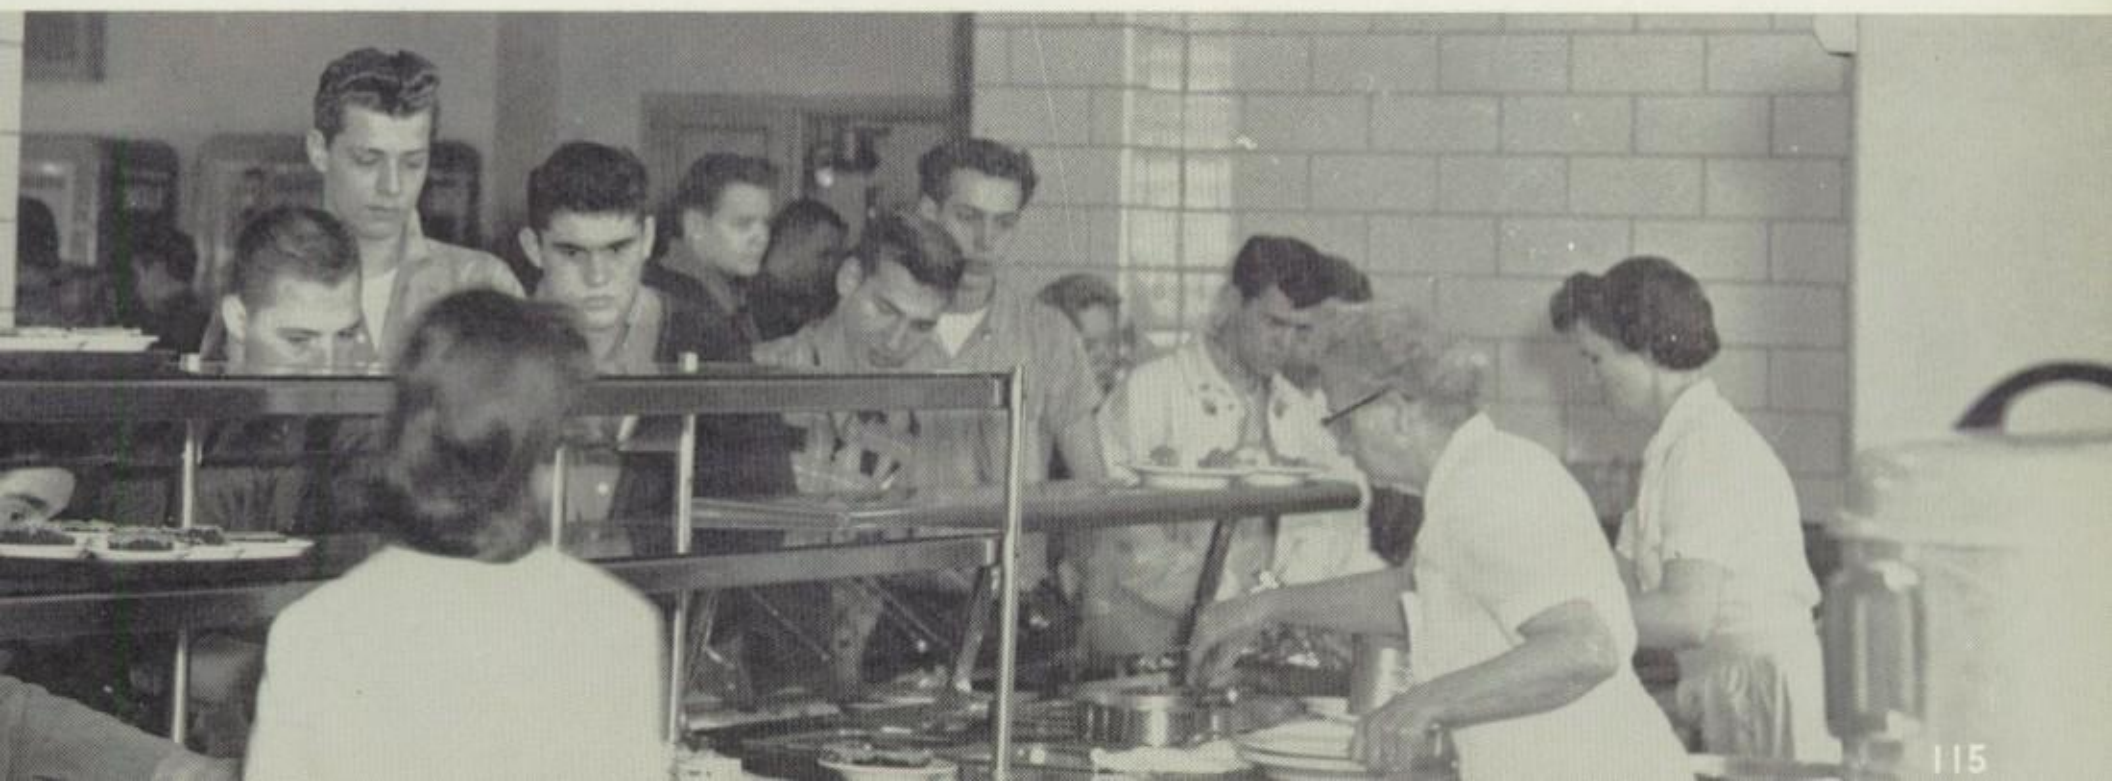
Planning is required

Behind the sc

Mrs. Knight, just like one of us?

That extra touch

Food for the hungry!



Pleasant, patient pal.

New laundry keeps P.E. towels clean.

Making heat to chase winter's chills away.

What would we do without them?
